CALL FOR CHAPTERS

Routledge International Handbook of Online Deviance

Editors:
Roderick Graham
Stephan G. Humer
Claire Seungeun Lee
Veronika Nagy

Timeline:
Deadline for Initial Proposals: March 1, 2022
Notification of Acceptance: April 1, 2022
First Drafts Due: August 1, 2022
Editor Comments: November 1, 2022
Final Drafts Due: July 1, 2023

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

CALL FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

The aim of the Routledge International Handbook of Online Deviance is to be a compendium of the current state of sociological and criminological scholarship on online deviance. There is increasing scholarship in different disciplines on social interactions transformed by the growing importance of internet use. Some use the reference to cyber, others use references to digital and online behaviour, and there are disciplines claiming that there is no division between online and offline interactions in connected societies. In this editorial volume, online deviance is understood in the broadest sense: as [online] behaviour that differs from the normative behaviour of a significant number of people in society, or behaviour evaluated negatively by others.

This handbook will be a corrective to the lack of focus in multidisciplinary objectives on online harms and will feature chapters that are focused on deviant social phenomena occurring due to internet use in diverse contexts. By focusing on different networks, structures and techniques, this book aims to provide an extensive collection on deviant actions/behaviour and highlight contextual differences, including the role of textualities, language and culture. Beside the legal, social, political and economic connotations of online deviance, we invite contributions from a wide range of disciplines and in different formats.

The editors are seeking chapters for these broad topics:
1.Theories and Concepts
2.Methods and Data
3.Gender, Sex, and Sexuality
4.Violence and Aggression
5.Lies and Deception
6.Communities and Culture
7.Regional Perspectives

Submission Procedures

Prospective authors should submit a short chapter proposal as a Word document or PDF file to onlinedeviance@gmail.com. The proposal should describe:
● The name and contact information of the author(s), along with a brief bio.
● The title of the proposed chapter and the topic section the author(s) believes the chapter best fits.
● An abstract of the chapters proposed. Chapters on theory and method should include the main ideas and conclusions. Empirical chapters should include the research question and data to be analyzed.

If prospective authors have more questions, please contact one of the editors below.

Editors

Roderick Graham, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Criminal Justice at Old Dominion University. (rgraham@odu.edu)

Stephan G. Humer, Dr. Phil., Professor and Director, Internet Sociology Department, Fresenius University Berlin. (stephan.humer@hs-fresenius.de)

Claire Seungeun Lee, Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor in the School of Criminology and Justice Studies at the University of Massachusetts Lowell. (claire_lee@uml.edu)

Veronika Nagy, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor at the Willem Pompe Institute for Criminal Law and Criminology in Utrecht. (V.Nagy@uu.nl)